

Circ.: e. 91,293

S. 104,495

Front Page	Edit Page	Other Page
---------------	--------------	---------------

Date:

Columbus Calling

MISSILES WERE giving Rep. William L. Minshall (R, Rocky River) nightmares two years ago when his constituents rebelled against having Nike anti-aircraft sites on their doorsteps.

Today the congressman is boning up on them and hopes to become the most informed man in Congress.

"I've had briefings by the military, and plan to visit the Central Intelligence Agency, missile makers and the Lewis Flight Propulsion Laboratory in Cleveland."

"WE'RE DEFINITELY in the era of push-button warfare. By 1965 our Air Force will consist of unmanned aircraft. They might as well call the Air Force Academy the missile academy."

In 1955 Minshall was bombarded with protests against Nike sites in his congressional district. His political opponents used them against him, unsuccessfully, when he was re-elected last year.

STAT